The UK is not only one of the leading countries in international disaster response and humanitarian aid but also is the base for many leading humanitarian and international development organisations where vision will turn into action.

London is the best connected city in the world with more direct flights than any other city. It can be reached by more people from more destinations in less time than any other destination in the world.

The capital is served by 6 international airports, with connections to 300 overseas destinations, throughout Asia, Europe and the Americas. With all of Europe’s principal business cities less than two hours flight away. Arriving by rail is just as easy with 30 high-speed Eurostar trains a day connecting London to Paris and Brussels. Moreover with nine mainline railway stations, travelling to and from the rest of the UK is also simple
